KINDERVATER

Declaring the glory of Christ
among the least reached where all the odds are stacked against us.

PRAISE & THANKS

- For the chance to share the Gospel of Christmas through music and in conversations.
- For each of the new people at the Gospel workshop.
- For great help from two nearby Alliance Churches at the workshop.

REQUESTS

- Please pray that Japanese would see the glory of the Savior in our lives and through our words.
- Please continue to pray for a door into the Laketown community.
- Please pray for a place for a new choir to meet in Laketown.

I don't WANT to go to college | Kapsule

"I don't want to go to college," sobbed Eryka. Evangeline was tucking the girls in last night when Eryka -- our ever-stable, always-cheerful little one - suddenly broke into this nearly uncontrollable sobbing.

No idea where on earth that idea came from. It wasn't something anyone had been talking about - certainly not in regard to a 5-year-old! Yet, she sobbed, worried about leaving mommy and going to college!

Evangeline tried to console her and reassure her that she didn't have to go for a very, very long time. And even when she got bigger, she didn't HAVE to go. And... some day she probably would want to go, because good things happen at college - like meeting Daddy!

And... at this point, Eryka burst out, "And that's another thing. I don't even know who I want to marry!"

It's hard not to laugh. This is SO unlike Eryka to worry or cry - about anything, and so out of the blue. What on earth was going on inside that little mind?

Later the thought came to me: maybe God gave us that little scene tonight to show us just how silly we look when we worry about our adult stuff!

Therefore do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will worry about itself. Each day has enough trouble of its own. (Mt 6:34, NIV)

Oh, to learn to trust completely. As we look for a way to break into the Laketown community, we need that trust.
